Free templates for Adobe Premiere ProTemplates contain more than just settings and range from simple animations to full projects. Check out the free Premiere Pro templates at Mixkit, or try these options: Cover Flow Template: This template allows you to quickly create a cover flow sequence in Premiere Pro CC and edit it easily. It's as simple as placing your source videos in the source timelines. Then go to the main timeline and play, render, or export. Now you have cool cover flow sequences in a few minutes, completely inside Premiere Pro, using built-in effects only. No third-party plug-ins! Comic Book Animation in 3D: With this free Premiere Pro template project, you can use your own video clips and create this animation in seconds. Fully made inside of Premiere Pro CC using built-in effects only. The project file includes a user manual. Star Wars Text: Here's a fun project template that mimics the iconic Star Wars opening titles. Just edit the text, and you're ready to go! The project is made in 1080p50 format, but can be easily changed to what you need. As always: The template and music are free, and you use them for whatever you want. Camera POV templates: Here are two simple Camera Point-of-View templates. Both free! Use the DSLR one (created by me) to simulate the viewfinder of a DSLR camera. Use the other (generously contributed by Immanuel Heims) to simulate a video camera viewfinder. Slide show Projector Template: Free template you use to create your own Slide Show Projector effect in Premiere Pro. Just throw in your own video or photos, and press Play! Everything is free, even the music, textures and sound FX. Notepad Paper Template: With this Premiere Pro CC template, you can quickly put an image and a text on the board. Give your own photo - the rest is included. Everything (yes, I mean everything), except the texture and the photo is taken from scratch in Premiere. This also applies to the notepad paper and the pin, the shadows, the folds and the frame. And it's free! Premiere Title Collection: Here's a useful collection of Premiere Pro titles. You get three templates for lower third parties, a final credit template, a one from special characters you copy/paste into other titles, a Push Pin (!), an empty title with Arial font at 40 px that you set as your default title and a subtitle template with a smart enclosing box. Everything is free and can be used on any project, even commercial. Video Reflection: With this cool Premiere Pro template project, you can create the popular video reflection look in just seconds! Literally! You no longer need to build this time-consuming effect from scratch. Import the corresponding sequence of this template project into your own project, swap the clip in the source sequence with your own footage, and you're done. Super easy! Night Vision Binoculars HUD: Here's a free Premiere Pro project template that mimics Night Vision Binoculars. It doesn't look much like any existing binoculars, but it looks pretty cool. It is made entirely in Premiere Pro, and can be easily customized. The project was created in 1080p50, but can be easily adapted to other formats.
